As a mirror reflecting the three short, full years of school life that we have just completed, this book can hardly begin to depict the varied experiences unforgettable to each and every one of us. Shakespeare says that "the world is but a stage where every man must play a part." Here on the imaginary stage of Wellesley High School we all have acted many parts—serious and gay—in the preparation and development for our next stage—the future. Because of this, it seems fitting that we design our book in a dramatic theme.

Thus, in the theatrical manner, we are

WE dedicate this book to you for managing your difficult assignment as interim principal with enthusiastic and efficient administration; for sacrificing in many cases your personal interests in preference to immediate problems of the school; for possessing a sensitiveness to the physical, mental and spiritual needs of young people; and for holding high hopes and ideals for the future of each pupil.

ARTHUR E. PIERCE

Superintendent

LINCOLN in his famous Gettysburg Address said, "It is for us, the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced."

Will you, the Graduating Class of 1946, please accept these great words of Lincoln as the larger and more important part of that message? Never in the history of the world has it been more vital that all of us, both as individuals and as a group, dedicate ourselves to winning and maintaining the peace that those who fought have made possible. To the younger generation will fall much of the responsibility. I have confidence that that responsibility will be gloriously discharged.

Congratulations to the Class of 1946 and best wishes for success and happiness; and may each of you have a sincere spirit of dedication to the great work that lies ahead!

THE DIRECTORS . . . constantly lending counsel and guidance from behind-the-scenes . . . giving inspiration, the basis of success of the final production.

Many things enter into our picture of the directors at W. H. S. . . . old habits, new faces . . . Mr. Moulton's war against chalk dust . . . Mr. Chapman's newspaper . . . Miss Parker's "little boys" . . . Mr. Upham's "almighty dollar" . . . Mrs. Coletta's varied hair-do's . . . and of course, Mr. Goodnough's "hot tips."

The new science department members: Mr. Spang, Mr. Stergios and Mr. Rhuland . . .

tiny Miss Wilson in the girls' gym . . . Familiar and unfamiliar service returnees: Mr. Pierce and Coach Steeves . . . Mr. Stimson teaching English, and Mr. Goodridge replacing Mr. Jewell on his retirement.

To these directors a final word of thanks for their aid which will prove invaluable in years to come.

The Student Council, made up of one representative from each homeroom, and the president and vice president of each class, meets every Tuesday "X" period under the guidance of Miss Bronson. The council sponsors all general school activities including the Football Dance, football rallies, stamp and bond drives, the Junior Red Cross, the High School Highlights column in the Townsmen, corridor supervision, bulletin board and display case committees. In addition, it is the sponsor of all fund-raising activities, and the clearing house for all general school problems. In electing committees, the Council tries to choose non-members in order to further all-student participation.

National Honor Society

Under the sponsorship of Mr. Moulton, Wellesley High School resumed its active membership in the National Honor Society last year. The choice of pupils is based on qualities of scholarship, service, leadership, and character. The purpose of the society is to create enthusiasm in good scholarship. Juniors who are enrolled as provisional members must be in the upper third of their class. Not more than five per cent of the class may be admitted. Seniors also must be in the upper third of their class, with the enrollment limited to fifteen per cent. After the announcement of candidates is made, certificates are awarded at a formal ceremony in early spring. The candid above shows the members of the Senior class who were provisional Junior members in 1945. Robert Fraser is absent from both pictures.

The chief work of the members of the Bradford staff has been to make the paper a true reflection of school life. The staff has co-operated with the student body to promote the best interests of the school by giving all groups equal representation; by promoting every school enterprise; and by encouraging the students to take part in extra-curricular activities. Great enthusiasm has been exhibited toward the Bradford by the members of this school, as they have shown by submitting articles of interest and variety.

We sincerely hope that next year's class will have a newspaper as successful as this year's paper, an editor as competent as Ellen MacGilvra, and a staff as willing to serve as there has been this year.

The Bradford

The purpose of the Yearbook staff has been to give you as many pictures and remembrances of each event as possible. For months, every afternoon and during the majority of "X" and "S" periods, Room 215 has been converted by the editors, Sylvia Rice and Burton Brown, into a madhouse of copy, layout, photographs, and food. Gradually, with the aid of the feature editors and untiring photographers, and under the prayers and guidance of our advisor, Miss Parker, this has all been slowly assembled into what we hope is a successful production.

We give special thanks to our art, business and photography advisors: Mrs. Coletta, Mr. Jewell, Mr. Stimson and Miss Guild. To the student members of the business and photography staff, and to all who extended their aid in any way, we express our gratitude.

We are all proud of the amazing heights our band has attained this year. It has proved to be one of the most effective means of arousing school spirit. Under the direction of its proficient leader, Mr. Leach, the band has displayed its skill in both school and town activities, including the Armistice and Memorial Day programs, football games and rallies, the outstanding Band Concert in February, and the various festivals that it has attended throughout the year.

We all remember the exciting atmosphere it created at our football games, its rousing music spurring on both the team and the spectators. Let this be a tribute to our band that has contributed so much to the reputation and spirit of Wellesley High.

BAND

ORCHESTRA

Under the baton of Mr. Leach, the orchestra has merited our pride and gained the envy of all our surrounding towns. Now, with the creation of a brand new dance orchestra, not only the classical lovers are pleased, but also the swing addicts.

The complete orchestra helps to make more enjoyable many other types of programs throughout the year. In the weekly assemblies the students are ushered in and out of the assembly hall with stimulating marches. Medleys and theme songs added to the enjoyment of the Senior Play. The seniors are particularly grateful to this organization for supplying the very finest of music for the graduation ceremonies.

CLUBS

For the first time since the beginning of the war clubs have played an active part in our school program.

The Red Cross Council, pictured by one of its displays, sponsors the annual Red Cross Drive and fills entertainment boxes for servicemen overseas.

The Rifle Club shoots it out in the bicycle room in the position as illustrated.

Do you recognize the Dramatic Club members walking with books on their heads? Besides stage action, make-up and practical drama are studied.

The Contributors' Club criticises both its own literature and the techniques of famous authors, and plans a publication containing the best work of the group.

As the name signifies, the Leaders' Club is formed to train boys to be gym leaders.

Interpretive dancing, rhumba, and jitterbugging are studied and performed by the Modern Dance group.

The Drivers' Club studies the theory of driving, the local, state and national laws, with emphasis on passing the Massachusetts license test.

Extensive knitting and sewing are done particularly at Christmas by the Sewing Club.

The Debating Club specializes in well-rounded, parliamentary debates.

On the whole, our clubs this year have been very successful and we hope the interest will continue.

FOOTBA

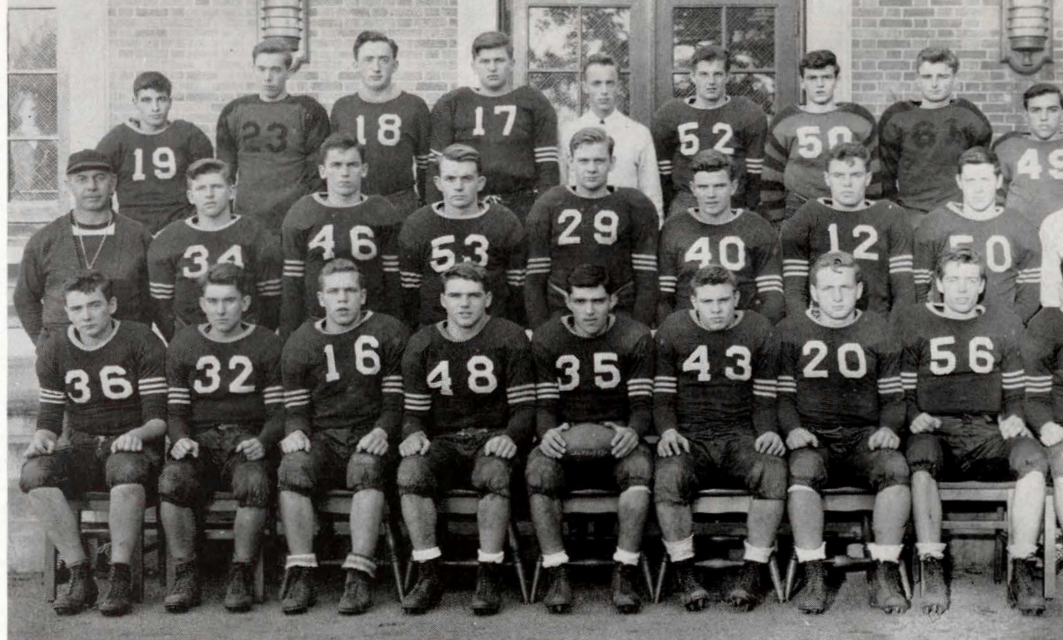

Wellesley's successful football season can be attributed to the combined efforts of Coach Bean, two outside helpers and the inspiring captain, Jim Decker. These produced a fighting team, which ended the season with five wins and four losses.

After taking the opener from Lexington, they lost three straight, and the sun shone not so brightly. Injuries slightly cured and spirits mounting, Wellesley eliminated Hingham with a spectacular kick. From there on in, Wellesley's hard-hitting brand of football, led by Jim Decker, was really tough for our opponents to take. This year's team was exceptionally well-balanced with a fast, hard-charging line being a fine complement to the powerful backfield.

Fall Saturday Afternoons

To the loyal, cheering fans that turned out faithfully to support our fighting eleven, there was nothing quite as thrilling as the combination of the mighty squad, the energetic cheerleaders, the peppy band and colorful twirlers. Excitement ran high as the pigskin artists pulled forth from an early-season slump to the heights of a Thanksgiving Day victory over Needham. The cheerleaders were always a source of inspiration and assistance both to the team and to the fans, no matter which side was in the lead. They also provided some mighty amusing entertainment!

The twirlers, supplementing the martial perfection of Mr. Leach's snappy band, added every bit of pomp necessary to make the spirit complete.

Despite a rather slow start, the Wellesley High School hockey team finished well up among the leaders in the Bay State League. Led by Captain Ash Nicolo the team worked hard, steadily improving its techniques. Every game showed more fire and enthusiasm than before, to the pleasure of a great number of faithful followers. This year's team profited from an increased number of non-league games in which our players proved themselves to be superior. The climaxing thrill was the 3-1 victory over Exeter.

An extra salute to Ash Nicolo and Lennie Maccini for election to the first all-star team, and a fanfare for "Milt" Murray and "Beebo" Ireland who were elected to the second team.

The girls' hockey team played some excellent games this fall, coming out with a total of three wins, three losses and two ties. The squad was made up partly of "veteran" Seniors, but many of the Juniors and Sophomores made very fine showings. Next year's team will certainly miss the excellent playing of Eleanor Kilmain, Joan Nelson, Jane Harvey, and JoAnne Blood.

The first team lineup included Captain JoAnne Blood, Joan Langevin, Eleanor Kilmain, Lib Day, Priscilla Allen, Jane Harvey, Joan Nelson, Virginia Ames, Sally Williams, Marcia Dobis, Lois Wicken and Marilyn Smith.

Under Miss Wilson's coaching, the girls worked up a great deal of co-operation and team spirit, and the players completed a very successful season.

Our basketball team had an exciting season, full of many moments of glory, in spite of the fact that it won only two games! For instance, it's not easy to forget the overhanded shots of Captain Bob Rooney at the Dover and Framingham games, and his exceptionally high scoring throughout the season. Another highlight was the basket parade staged at Dedham by Dick Potts' long shots. Morsey Pearl, Al Mandozzi and Frank Fontana also proved themselves to be sharpshooters. On alternate guard duty were Rice, Safford, Longworth and Allen.

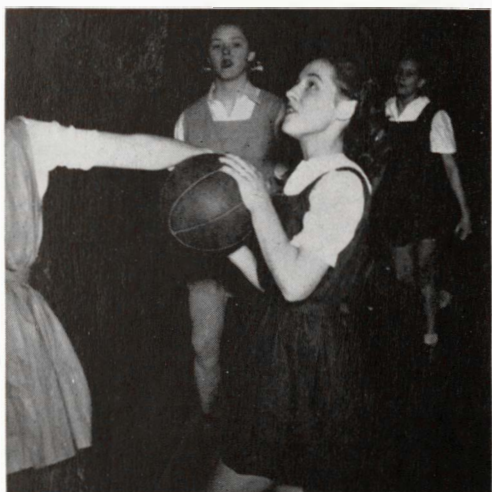

From the showing of the J.V.'s, and under-class members of the Varsity, we foresee a winning future.

Under the effective coaching of Miss Wilson, the girls' basketball squad had a very successful year. The seniors, captained by Mary Chappell, came out on top with three wins and a loss. The juniors, under Natalie Child, finished with one win, three losses. The final reckoning for the sophomores under Dot Carpenter, was two wins, one loss, and a tie. The most notable matches were the two senior games with our traditional rival, Needham, both of which Wellesley won.

The first and second varsity teams consisted of the outstanding players of the class teams, with JoAnne Blood and Joanne Felker as respective captains.

High scorer for the year was Mary Chappell, with JoAnne Blood and Sis Allen closely following.

For the first time in several seasons Wellesley's '45 track team was a little under par. Last spring we lost to Concord, Lexington, and Framingham all by close margins. In these defeats, however, we took at least a majority of the "firsts." We defeated Needham, and our two relay teams made an excellent showing at Belmont, the 880 team taking first in class C competition. Burt Brown and Bob Schmid were both undefeated in the 440 and broad jump respectively. Brown was elected captain of this spring's squad. Along with him as other seasoned men are Perry, San Martino, Odell, Potts, Harunk, Moore and many others. Coach Chapman has strong hopes for a successful season, with a large squad participating.

Track

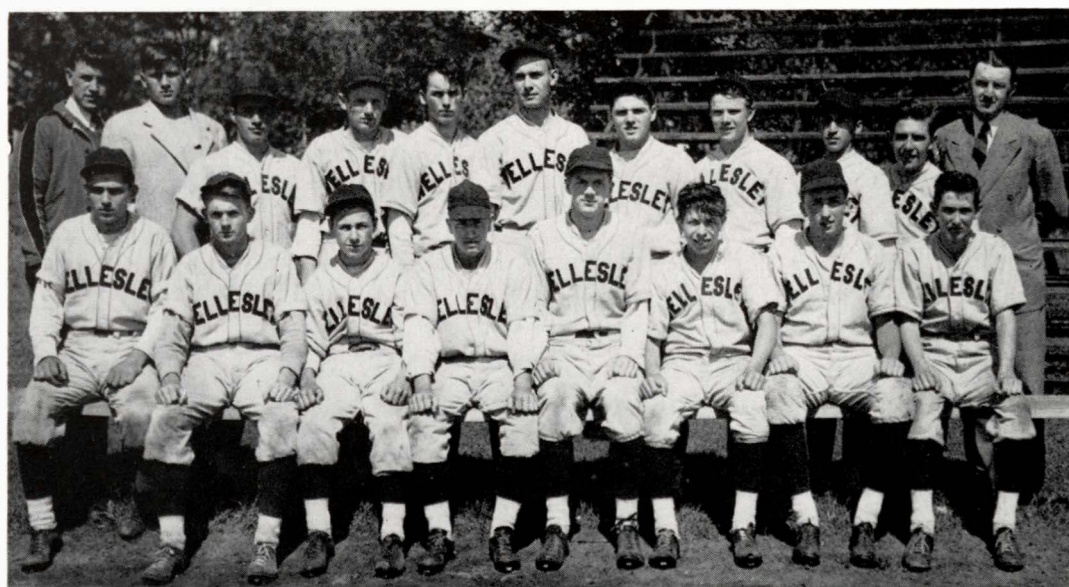

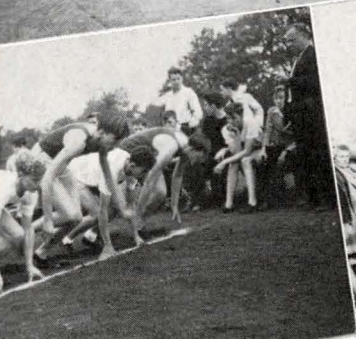

Baseball

Wellesley's '45 baseball team started out with a bang and kept up the impressive record until Uncle Sam called upon Dick Stanwood and Spif Kerivan. At that time the team had to be rebuilt and the remaining spring weeks were utilized in laying a strong foundation for this year's squad. Some of the experienced players are Jim Decker, Fred Rice, "Morsey" Pearl, Lenny Maccini, "Tiger" Furdon, Frank Fontana, Johnny Sanford, Joe Nicoli and Bob Wenning. The club really feels the loss of pitcher, Bob Fraser, who left to attend Harvard.

With transportation difficulties ended, many more games are being planned. Coach Goodnough has strong hopes for a successful season.

Lennie's beautiful eighty-five-yard punt in the delayed Thanksgiving Day game, and Pottsie's seventy-two-yard touchdown run the same day . . . Captain Decker's excellent passing throughout the season . . . a strong nucleus of players remaining for next year's team.

The amazing success of Wellesley's hockey team in non-league games—wins over Natick, Newton, B. C. High, Oblate Fathers, Mt. St. Charles and Exeter . . . "All Stars" Maccini, Nicolo, Murray and Ireland . . . the hockey team flirting with records.

The trials of the boys' basketball team . . . scoring highlights by Rooney, Potts and Mandozzi . . . the exclusion of boys from girls' basketball games! . . . girls outscoring the boys by amassing a total of forty-one points against Needham.

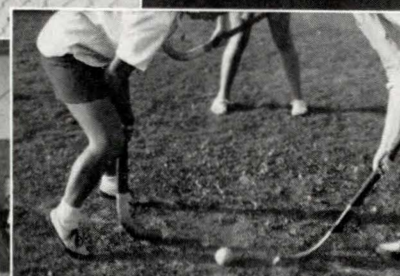

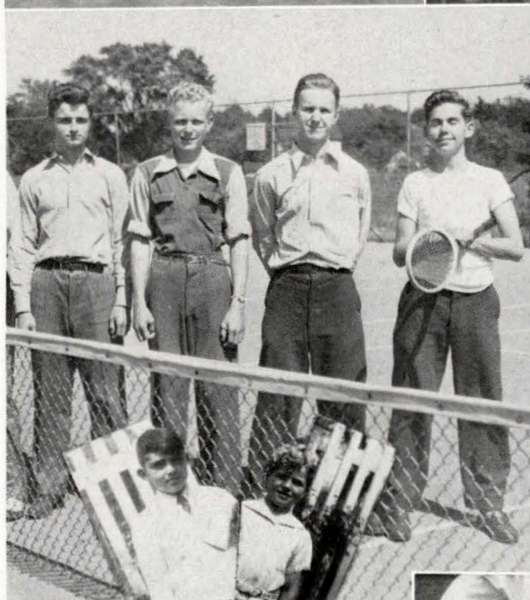

Return of Coach Ted Steeves . . . the Maugus Club tumblers . . . gym team . . . a Spring athletic demonstration . . . Leaders' Club.

Something new . . . athletic jacket awards for Seniors . . . a jacket dance in support.

Mr. Stergios' wrestling team . . . excellent prospects for Spring sports . . . absence of Schmid and Fraser on track and baseball teams respectively.

This year's senior three-letter men: Jim Decker, Fred Rice, Morsey Pearl, Dick Potts and Al Mandozzi.

Girls in the sports' news: "Sis" Allen thrown into the shower fully dressed . . . Mary Chappell's talent for making baskets . . . Bev Jackson elected head of next year's cheerleaders . . . and so we look forward to another year of sports.

The Senior Council, a division of the Student Council, was organized to sponsor activities particularly pertinent to the senior class. It also provides for student participation in the internal management of the school outside of regular Student Council duties. The Senior Council is made up of the senior class president, Donald Partridge; the vice president, Daniel Burke; and the senior members of the Council. Supported by our class advisor, Mr. Upham, the Council prepares material for the consideration of the entire class and presents matters to the class for official action. Among the many activities sponsored by the Senior Council are the class picnic, prom and play; the graduation assembly, caps and gowns, the class will and gift.

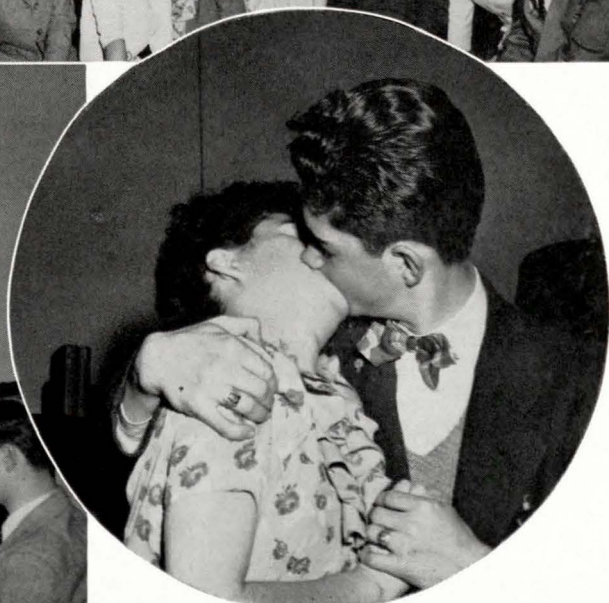

Senior Council

THE SENIOR PLAY

I'll Leave It to You

The hall is large and full of brand new seventh graders, looking just as you feel—scared. You look around at the others—all shined up and nervously shrieking to each other. Then a teacher raps on the piano and the hall becomes quiet. Names are read and the strange looking teachers lead you in groups to your homerooms. After this bit of organization, your first day begins at J. H. S.

Gradually you become a part of the school. You make friends with the kids who will finish school with you. And of course your homeroom is the best of all. The activities come thick and fast. Planning the guidance periods, electing the homeroom officers, taking care of the bulletin boards, being elected to the Congress, are all part of a new system that also includes having subject teachers and going to their rooms for the classes. The thirty-minute assignments given this first year make you feel important—a real school kid. (Little did you realize!)

During your second year at J. H. S., the war begins. At first it has little effect on your life. You buy defense stamps and save paper as part of a new patriotic experience. But when your brothers and fathers start to leave, you begin to wonder; and somehow you know this shadow will be over you the remainder of your school days.

Then, before you know what's happening, you are in the ninth grade—seniors to the rest of the school. You are at the top. This is the best year of all. Now you are the leaders in the activities: editors of the Phillipian, monitors and heads of all committees. This is the first year that you elect class officers. The campaigns are what you will remember most about the election—with the posters, the tickets everyone collects and most important of all, the speeches.

Now you have become more specialized in your subjects and struggle with algebra, the languages, and science. You, as seniors, dominate the assemblies. You will remember two in particular—the farce on Julius Caesar with Billy Dow and Bruce Odell as Caesar and Brutus, and Stinky Drisko's kitchen band! An epidemic of German measles, and the Senior Play, "Ready Made Family" are outstanding spring highlights. Remember the scene in the play where Skid Sherwood and Danny Knight went mad?

This is also the year every member of the class is saddened by the sudden death of Ralph Patterson—a loss which will be felt throughout all the years of high school.

With the completion of the year's work comes Class Day, with the picnic, the games, and the dance with music provided by Jimmy Russell's orchestra. It takes people a long, long time and much encouragement to drag themselves onto the floor. (Can you see that happening now?)

Three years of J. H. S. are over. In prospect now is that mysterious and exciting place—the senior high school.

They warned you you'd take a tumble. You took no heed—but you found out! You are the lowly creature now, and you know it. You can't forget it! This is the beginning of a new and completely different experience. You are certainly deflated.

You elect officers and attend class meetings. You are a scared member of the Student Council. The after-school meeting place has moved from the Belvedere to Bendslev's and the Dairy. Attempts are made to be able to swagger down the halls just as the juniors and and joining the Armed Forces. The ending of the war in Europe brings some relief to the overhanging tension, but along with it comes a grim determination to help end it completely. The loss of the war leader, President Roosevelt, strengthens this resolution in the hearts of all.

During the summer, the war does end, and you start your last year of high school in a world once more at peace.

And now it's here—the best of all the six years. You're nearly finished with this carefree life of comparative irresponsibility. You plunge into the activities of the year with a gusto of which only a senior is capable. You miss the kids that have left for college and the service. You hate to think of the future. It scares you. You'd be satisfied to be a high school senior for the rest of your life.

Now you're full of school spirit. You're either a top athlete, or an avid fan who wouldn't miss a school game for anything. The name of Wellesley High means an awful lot to you.

You do some serious thinking for yourself and decide to act sincerely upon that thinking. You try conscientiously to settle down to study hard, with a definite goal in mind.

You work hard on extra senior committees in addition to selling subscriptions to the Bradford and Wellesleyan, and taking care of the bulletin boards and stamps. You make your graduation and the week of fun preceding it more wonderful than you'd hoped for in all your years of high school.

Then it's over. Everything. It seems to you that you'll never know any years as wonderful—and for a little while you're sad. But after some deliberation, it all comes back to the thought that there's a lot more ahead worth striving for.

History

seniors do. The girls have terrific crushes on senior boys, when they aren't skipping school to see Frank Sinatra. The boys begin to go out for sports and are surprised to find so many stars among themselves.

This year you see Mr. Gaige off to the war—with the hope that he will return before your own graduation.

As you enter your junior year you've grown up some. You look older and what's more you are beginning to think for yourself. The climax towards which all the juniors look and work is the Prom. And isn't it some Prom? The best the school has ever seen! You swell with pride when the seniors grudgingly admit that it "wasn't bad."

This is the year many of the older members of the class are graduating ahead of time

Senior Notes

Our 'senior book couldn't possibly be complete without a few extra notes and remembrances.

We've suffered many losses in our class in the past few years which will make the group at graduation hardly complete. Dick Griswold, Grizzly to all, and Charlie Higgins were about the first to leave for the war, to the Marines and Navy respectively. Do you recognize their pictures elsewhere in the book?

Dave Locke, another Leatherneck, was ambitious enough to gain sufficient points to graduate with last year's class.

Those two westward bound casanovas, Bob Schmid and Whitey Meyer, left a big hole in the class when they pulled up stakes for California.

More recent service departees include Dud Hall, Bruce Houghton, Edmund Fortini, Dan Gleason, Ted Connors, Bobby MacDowell and Roger Tooker.

Bob Fraser is doing Wellesley High proud at Harvard.

The seniors are fortunate to have class rings back again.

There has been an abundance of school and class spirit shown particularly for sports—by the huge attendance at games all over Massachusetts. This was especially noticeable among the senior girls!

Bendslev's, the Dairy, the "Pole" and the Morgue have kept their places as the most popular senior haunts—after school, after games, and on Saturday nights.

Our Senior Play this year was a Noel Coward production ably acted by P. Joyce, C. Bartlett, M. Grubbs, C. Doyle, N. Lee, B.

Becker, J. Palmer, D. Dowling, V. Worley, and V. Steeves.

Around Christmas many boys took on jobs as mailmen—depleting the school population.

The dissection of worms, frogs and cats has caused sensations throughout the year. It wasn't in the least unusual to see a bottle that was sheltering pickled kidneys, intestines or cats' tongues being gingerly carried through the corridors.

Senior and junior candid photographers have made the school picture conscious. Won't some of the unsuspecting subjects be surprised when they see some of these pictures!

Credit goes to Kitsy Keller for her cover design on this book; to Carolyn Bartlett, Jean Mills, and Joan McEwan for their lettering. Our other fine artists could sign their names to their work.

Things we remember . . . here and there . . . Drisko's laugh . . . Butch Donahue's friendliness and enthusiasm . . . lunchroom dieting and bridge games . . . Tub Decker's "Geeze" and Marius' "Cease!" . . . Bobby Coleman's and Jay Moore's cars . . . Irma Nicolai's clothes variety . . . Janet Shamitz's biology book . . . Dibby's piano playing . . . the Pepsi Cola tests to the ten "most likely to succeed" . . . "Oh Syl-via . . ." Skull number 2 . . . "morons" in a certain English class . . . Mr. Stimson's dancing . . . "Happy Birthdays" to Morsey . . . the operatic contributions of Donald Taddia and Don Partridge . . . Ann Seiler's "Till the End of Time" . . . Miss Macomber and Mr. Upham's love for us as sophomores!

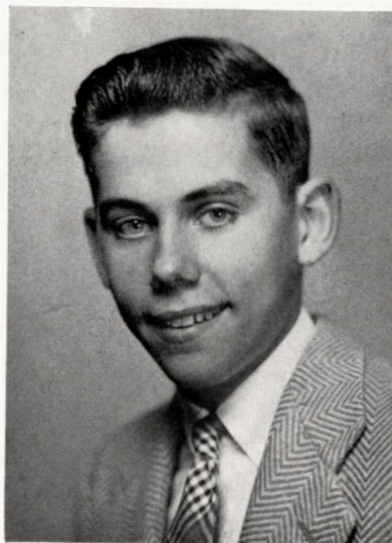

Frantic basketball playing by Mary Chappell . . . continuous and exciting letter-writing by Jinx . . . the lengthy discussions of Cooner and Harvey . . . Mr. Mathers' absence—we miss him . . . Yearbook's successful business staff going mad in the process of money-getting . . . the egg and Charlie Chase . . . Nancy Danielson's blonde hair . . . Barbie Atherton's custom made clothes.

And there's so much, much more.
